WHEN WILL YOU RETIRE?

WHAT'S YOUR PLAN?

Body:

Hey there, {{firstname}}

Have you ever wondered if you're really on track for retirement?

Most people think they are – until they do the math.

Here's what many don't realize:

The average person needs over $1 MILLION to retire comfortably... inflation can cut your savings in half over 20 years... AND social Security is losing its touch...

Can you honestly say you have a plan that accounts for all this?

Are you saving enough each month?

Are you putting your money in the right places?

I've seen too many smart people reach their 50s and suddenly panic when they realize time is running out.

They wished someone had given them a reality check decades earlier.

Don't be that person.

The good news? Small adjustments now can make a HUGE difference later.

Whether you're fresh out of high school or 49 and feeling fine, the best time to get clarity is right now. The second best time is tomorrow. After that, every day costs you money.

Here's my offer: Book a 45-minute consultation with me. It's fast, simple, and might be the most valuable half-hour you spend this year.

I won't use fancy jargon or try to sell you complicated products. Just straight talk about where you stand and what options make sense for you.

No pressure. No confusion. Just clarity.
